

Free-flowing exchange

Work crews installed signs and painted lanes Friday as the Utah Department of Transportation opened the Provo Canyon Road/Eighth North clover-like interchange at the mouth of Provo Canyon. The $7.7 million project, begun last year, is designed to ease traffic congestion at the intersection. The interchange is free-flowing, but northbound cars turning west onto Eighth North have to yield to oncoming traffic. C.V. Anderson, UDOT District 6 director, said plans are under way to widen University Avenue to four lanes from 2230 North to the new interchange. Traffic has grown consistently in recent years as more and more people have discovered the canyon's recreational opportunities.

Utah County

Monday, October 21, 1985

Sports / Business / People / Statistics

DESERT NEWS

PHOTOGRAPHY/ GARY McKELLAR

ending county's 23 lift-equipped buses to Salt Lake.

es may go to S.L.

ake," said English. "It'll in December, but if we them for the extra six n."

ested in speaking at the g Tuesday should call 517 to be placed on the er. Additional registra- taken at the time of the Information about the proposed change is available at the UTA Timpanogos Division office, 100 S. 1111 West.

Written or verbal comments will be accepted through Oct. 30 and should be submitted to: UTA general manager John C. Pingree, P.O. Box 31810, Salt Lake City, Utah 84131.

county ents

er club's or group's information listed in this calendar, please eret News Utah County Bureau, 374-1162.

1, State Hospital Spook Alley, 1300 E. Center, Provo, 373-4400. day and Halloween 7-11 p.m. weekdays 7-10 p.m. $2 per person age

"I have always been interested in the process and management of government," Knighton said. "These are my neighbors that are under this government, and I am excited to be involved."

Knighton also said he is going into the study without any preconceived notions. He said the study will be fair and honest.

Although Deputy County Attorney Lynn Davis said the task force groups do not fall under the state open meetings law, Knighton said many of the meetings will be open to the public.

"Let's face it, some of them will be pretty boring, but we want to involve the public as often as possible, and we are always open for suggestions," he said.

Anderson said that if the commission feels suggestions from the task force need to be used right away they will be.

"We may take some of the suggestions to the people also," Anderson said. "You can be sure people will know what we are doing."

MEETINGS agendas

Orem City Council

Oct. 22, work session: 5:30 p.m.; regular session: 7 p.m.; City Council chambers, 56 N. State.

WORK SESSION

1. Tour — planned residential versity of Washington Medical School as designer and supervisor of the Medical Instrument Shop, where new and special equipment was designed and built. Under Quinton's direction, cardiac surgical equipment, bio-mechanical equipment and advanced cardiac instrumentation were perfected.

One of his most noteworthy experiences came during his collaboration or approximately 30 papers describing special devices developed by him for use in the medical field.

He is a member of the American Society for Artificial Internal Organs and the European Dialysis and Transplant Association.

The lecture is part of the Entrepreneur Lecture Series sponsored by the School of Management.

Welsh writer will describe the stresses of the poet's life in Y. lecture Tuesday

PROVO — Award-winning Welsh poet and short story writer Leslie Norris will speak Tuesday in the Brigham Young University forum, on responsibilities and stresses of the poet's life, especially that of Dylan Thomas.

Norris will speak on "Farm From Fern Hill" at 11 a.m. in the Marriott Center. The talk will be broadcast live on KBYU-FM, 88.9, and KBYU-TV, Channel 11, and repeated on TV at 9 p.m. and at 5 p.m. Oct. 27.

Norris, now in his second year as a professor of literature in the BYU English department, will examine how a poet's life matters to the community, using the work of Welsh poet Dylan Thomas as an example.

A frequent contributor to the New Yorker and Atlantic Monthly magazines, Norris received teaching certificates at the City of Coventry College and a master of philosophy degree at the University of Southampton in England.

He served in the Royal Air Force during World War II and later became a teacher and headmaster in state schools.

Norris also has served as a visiting poet and professor at Eton College in England and at the University of Washington. His most recent nine volumes of poetry titled "Walking the White Fields" were printed in the United States in 1980. His short stories are collected in "Sliding and Other Stories" printed in the United States and England. He has won prestigious prizes for his poetry and prose.

Waterford pre-school program planned

PROVO — A meeting will be held Tuesday at 7 p.m. at the Waterford School, 931 E. Third North, to announce the opening in January of a pre-school program for 3- and 4-year-olds.

During the meeting, the educational philosophy will be discussed, the daily program will be described and the director and others involved will be introduced. There will be time for questions from the audience.